Dinner Dance—
Early arrivals at Bull's-Eye country club for the Saturday night dinner dance were fortunate in being seated at the long tables arranged on the porch where they could enjoy the beauty of an ideal mid-summer evening. Small tables in-doors took care of the overflow, the guests numbering 80. Hydrangeas and snap dragons lent their loveliness to the tables. Dancing continued until a late hour to tunes by the Castilians. Mr. and Mrs. Norbert M. Daly were chairmen for this event, the second formal party of the season, and were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Byron B. Conway, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Richmond and Mr. and Mrs. Gary A. Getzin.

Anniversary Dance—
Close to 800 people danced to the music of Harold Ferron's ten piece orchestra of Appleton at Memorial Armory Saturday night, thus joining members of Company F, Wisconsin State Guard in celebrating the second anniversary of their organization. A coke bar and sandwiches in the canteen proved popular at intermission. Sgt. William Zonner in charge of arrangements for the party was assisted by Pvt. George Peterson, ticket sales; Pvt. Clifford Dolan and Sgt. Oscar Eid, canteen; and Sgt. Leonard Dahlman, military police.

Social Situation
THE SITUATION: An unmarried woman, who has no place to entertain, is entertained often by married friends.

WRONG WAY: She makes no effort to repay her married friends' hospitality, figuring that they will realize she can't entertain at home.

RIGHT WAY: She can repay her friends' hospitality by taking them out to dinner, or inviting them to a picnic for which she supplies the food (bought at a delicatessen if she has no place where she can prepare it herself).

Or she might even volunteer to stay with her friends' children sometimes when they are invited out. (There is always some way in which a person can repay accepted hospitality.)
